Baltimore/Washington, DC based Site Link Construction, LLC Acquires the Assets of Crizer Brothers, Inc.

Columbia, MD - 16 July 2009 – Site Link Construction, LLC, a Baltimore/Washington, DC area construction firm specializing in the installation of wireless telecommunications towers and network infrastructure, with headquarters in Columbia, MD, said on Thursday that it has completed the asset purchase of Crizer Brothers, Inc., a local telecommunications construction company based in Alexandria, VA. David Yacoub, the CEO of Site Link Construction, said the acquisition will create a “regional powerhouse” focused on the highest caliber wireless construction infrastructure services. Financial terms of the acquisition have not been disclosed.

Site Link Construction, and its sister company Site Link Wireless, currently employ 50 employees throughout the Mid-Atlantic and provide site acquisition, leasing, zoning, permitting and construction services to many of the national wireless telecommunication carriers in the region. Charles Crizer, CEO of Crizer Brothers, said that the acquisition provided the “perfect opportunity to leverage the quality construction and RF (Radio Frequency) experience of Crizer Brothers with Site Link Construction’s position in the market place”. He went on to state that both companies were entirely home grown entities that have achieved success independently through old fashion hard work and quality service. Taking that thought to the next level, Mr. Yacoub continued that “by coming together, our two companies will achieve a far greater reach and provide enhanced services” to our clients than we were able to prior to the acquisition.
